MASSACRE OR MASK?

"They", whoever they are, dub it the "Halloween Massacre."

Defense Secretary James Schlesinger and CIA Director William Colby are out; Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is no longer chief of the National Security Council.

And Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller resigned as runningmate with President Gerald Ford in 1976.

Chief presidential advisor Donald Rumsfield is to succeed Schlesinger, China representative George Bush is to replace Colby and Lt-Gen. Brent Scowcroft is to follow Kissinger.

No one knows who will be Ford's runningmate, who, according to current Harris Polls, is leading five possible Democratic challengers by anywhere from 2(Kennedy) to 7 points. The election is a year away.

There is no explicit connection between the Schlesinger-Colby firings and the Kissinger reduction with Rockefeller's resignation. That is, other than the timeing of the President's tough stand on New York City finance, which created an untenable tempest for Mr. Liberal Republican in his homestate.

Mr. Ford pre-empted the more conservative Ronald Reagan on New York and fed Rockefeller to GOP conservatives. He knows Rockefeller will be an independent vice-president for 14 months, one in his mid-or-late 60s who is an unlikely contender against the President.

One of the original Rockefeller Foundation braintrusts is still in the Ford Administration. And that is, of course, Henry Kissinger, who may have forced Schlesinger out and was willing to concede the Security Council post to get him out.

Kissinger remains a power in this administration, a factor which again makes Ford analogous to Harry Truman.

Truman challenged a "do-nothing" Congress, campaigned vigorously though in a less-dangerous political climate and placed great confidence in his secretary of state, then Dean Acheson.

Ford's continuing reliance on Kissinger, though defrocked of one job, shows a desire to sustain detente, which is in trouble and was criticized by Schlesinger. Detente is a lingering triumph of the Nixon - Kissinger, Moscow-Peking journeys.

For the time, the President thinks he can handle domestic problems if his Secretary of State can handle a strident foreign scene.

If anything, Kissinger had more influence than Acheson until the loss of the Security Council post.

Politics is the President's business. He won the minority leader's post from one of the GOP's toughest gut-fighters years ago. And considering Truman's upset win over Dewey in 1948, it's not bad business for the President to study HST.

Mr. Ford was quick to bring Texan George Bush back to Washington. And if John Connally won't take the vice-presidential nomination, assuming Reagan's failure to get the presidential nomination, Bush might be a year away from one of his own.

Bush came close when Ford was chosen for the vice-presidency by Nixon. And he, Bush, is a moderate to liberal Republican who has been outside the hassle, as well as the country.

Perhaps the "Halloween Massacre" is a mask for shoving GOP liberalism and conservatism into a cocked hat, from which Gerald Ford will pull a new runningmate and other surprises for a befuddled political world.

Poage Reports House Action On Postal Service

Cong. W. R. Poage reports that the House has ordered the Postal Service to put all receipts into the Treasury and depend on appropriations for its expenditures.

This was in an amendment adopted on the Floor, Poage said, and stated that he voted for the amendment. However, he said he did not vote for the bill to which the amendment was attached, for reorganization of the Service, because "it authorizes expenditures of a billion and one-half dollars more than the budget provided."

Poage said that about six years ago a majority of the Congress voted to let the Postal Service "keep all of it receipts and spend vast sums of public money without direct appropriations. I voted against that bill."

Poage added, "I think the whole Postal Service should be returned to the Post Office Department and there should be clear cut authority and responsibility. No matter how hard the local postal employees try, they cannot make a service a success that spends as much money on overhead as this agency has been doing."

Day Care Center Sets Open House Sunday

The Cameron Day Care Center will mark the beginning of its fourth year of operation with an Open House Sunday, November 9 from 9 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. Residents of the city are invited to come by and visit the center and meet the staff that day.

The staff includes Mrs. John Gelner, administrator; Mrs. Irene Simmons, assistant administrator and Mrs. Linda Laura, teacher. Besides the full-time staff, two boys from Texas Rehabilitation and one girl from the Central Texas Council of Governments youth program work part time as their school work allows.

The center provides a program for 20 children to be cared for from low income families while their parents are working or are in job training. The program meets rigid federal guidelines.

The program includes educational activities, nutritional program, medical and dental screening, testing and evaluation through the Milam County Outreach Center.

Dr. Anne Garrett, early childhood education professor from McLennan County Junior College and Martha Loeffler, child development specialist from the Department of Public Welfare, serve as education consultants to the program.

The center is funded through the Department of Public Welfare, revenue sharing, United Fund and through local churches -- First United Methodist, First Baptist, Church of Christ, Cameron Grove Baptist, Progressive Baptist, Lights Chapel, St. Monica Catholic and First Presbyterian.

The board of directors for the center are from the local community and include: Rev. John Homerstad, Mrs. R. J. Woodum, Mrs. Elaine Perrin, Mrs. Elma Flores, John Davis, Odell Biggs, Mrs. J. K. Wilkerson, Rev. Stanley Vodicka, Narvie Caperton and Mrs. Harry Burleson.

The center welcomes part-time volunteer help.

Milam Vote Rejects Charter

Milam County followed a statewide trend and voted overwhelmingly to defeat adoption of a new state constitution in a special election Tuesday. Vote was light with only 2,383 voters going to the polls out of 8,421 registered voters.

Proposition one was defeated with a vote of 794 for and 1,544 against. Other totals were just as definite as the first.

Voters defeated propositions 2, 3, and 4 with these totals respectively: 845 for, 1,474 against: 843 for, 1,486 against; and 844 for, 1,482 against.

Voters also turned down proposition number 5, the finance bill that would have called for uniform property tax appraisals and separate property tax evaluations for farm, ranch and timber land. The vote was 884 voting yes and 1,467 voting no.

Milam County citizens turned down proposition 6 by another high margin, 721 votes. Voting was 803 for, 1,524 against.

Propositions 7 and 8 failed by 758 and 683 votes respectively. The vote for number 7 was 785 for, 1,543 against. The vote for number 8 was 819 for, 1,502 against.

Gov. Briscoe said Tuesday night the election results show that the people of Texas have faith in their old 1876 constitution.

On Oct. 14 the governor broke a long silence and advised Texans to defeat all provisions. He said in Dallas last week that he once 25 years ago favored revision of the constitution but later saw the state grow and prosper without revision.

The document called for annual legislative sessions, merging of the state's highest criminal and appeals courts, greater gubernatorial control over state agencies, made the agriculture commissioner a member of the executive branch, eliminated the salary limit for legislators and other sweeping changes opponents said were to costly and too autocratic.

WIN AGAIN--Gause Elementary School students have been named 1974-75 State Champion Award Winner in the President's Physical Fitness Program. This is the second consecutive year the school has been named state champion. The state champion award is given to the school in each state with the highest percentage of students qualifying. To receive the award, students must score above the 85th percentile in each test in a battery of six strenuous tests. Shown with the students are principal C. J. Roberts, left, and Bill Hairrell, coach.

3—Car Collision Injures Three On Farm Road 485

A three-car collision on Farm Road 485 six miles west of Cameron Sunday evening sent three persons to Scott and White Hospital in Temple with undetermined injuries.

Texas Highway Patrolman Don Wardlow of Rockdale identified the three as Don Allen Zabcik, 19, of Temple; Mrs. Mary Williams of Copperas Cove; and Mrs. Ruth Carpenter Scrogin, 67, of San Saba. He said all three were driving alone at the time of the accident at 6:55 p.m.

Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Scrogin were westbound on FM 485 and Zabcik was eastbound when the mishap occurred, Wardlow said.

City Council Hires Engineer For Water Plant Discharge Plan

The city council hired an engineering firm to draw up plans requested by the Texas Water Quality Board to eliminate discharge from the city's water treatment plant.

Caison and Associates is the engineering firm and plans will be drawn up to meet a December 31 deadline. Actual work does not have to be completed before 1977.

Under objection by the Board is the waste that is flushed into the river from the backwash of filters and sludge from the water settlement basin.

The engineer explained that the best method would be to construct two lagoons with a lift station which would take clear water back to the plant. One pool would be drained and the sludge allowed to dry, after which it could be hauled off.

The firm also offered to make a complete analysis of the city's water system and make recommendations on how it could be improved.

Mayor Gene Blake said the city needs to have long-range plans for its water system, as federal requirements for pure water will be more stringent in the future.

In other business, council dismissed a request from Ben Milam Savings & Loan for a tax adjustment, agreeing that the firm can seek the adjustment when it renders its taxes in January.

Council approved a request for a mobile home park at 22nd and Travis, with the stipulation that all work will comply with the city's mobile home park ordinance.

A committee of City Atty. Ed Magre, Works Supt. Walter Wallace, and Tommy Chamberlain was appointed to work out a problem of space use at the sanitary landfill site.

Council agreed that it is not the city's job to haul off trees cut down by a contractor, that it is the property owner's responsibility to have the work done.

A report from A. W. McCullin noted that the old urban renewal project is being closed out and the city was requested to pay for the two lots that were not sold by the agency. He also reported that the second urban renewal project is nearly complete, with the last wo buildings being vacated soon.

He also reported that curbs are to be installed on New House Ave. in readiness for paving by the building contractor. Other paving authorized was on Gillis from Crockett to College to be paid for by the Coca Cola Bottling Co.

McCullin also recommended the naming of Cruz Reyes to the city planning commission with council agreement.

McCullin reported that Green Thumb workers are removing old wood from an unused stone building at Ledbetter Park. A roof will be built using salvaged material so the site can be used.

In closing the mayor recommended that as tax money comes in some $25,000 to $30,000 be earmarked for a storm drainage project in the Green Addition. The drainage project is necessary before any paving can be done.

Court Order Presents Problems

Farmers, highway maintenance men, and city employees who clean out ditches or move any dirt where cattails and willow trees grow--and many other places as well--may soon be faced with getting permission from a United States Army colonel. And they must also receive comment from the Texas Water Quality Board, according to terms of a recent Washington, D. C. federal court order.

The possibility of having thousands of individuals and local governments swamped in new federally inspired paper work for many routine operations is very real, according to Hugh C. Yantis Jr., executive director of the Texas Water QualityBoard.

Yantis said that if this is a back door approach to land use planning, which has been turned down by Congress on several occasions, it ought to be recognized as such and dealt with openly.

This new problem for land owners and local governments arose when a group of environmentalists, organized as the Natural Resources Defense Council Inc., filed a lawsuit against the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency in a Washington federal district court. The judge ruled on March 2 7 that the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers had to apply their permit requirements for navigable waters to "all waters of the United States."

First indication were that even routine farming operations might be covered, and such an uproar ensued that some provisions were changed.

However, regulations as now proposed by the Corps of Engineers with the approval of the Environmental Protection Agency have still met with almost unanimous opposition from all areas of Texas government. Corps permits are now to be required for the excavation of ditches, diking, dredging, or filling in of wetland areas, among other things.

The court ruled that tributaries to navigable streams were part of the law, which means that brooks small enough to step across are frequently included in the new law, as well as throusands of ponds larger than two surface acres in size.

House of Rep. Bill 6935 is now before a sub-committee, and it provides for amending the waterpollution control act to limit the areas covered to the traditional concept of navigation. Plans are being made for a strong presentation by Texas officials when the hearings are held.

Round 2 Ahead...

Then House Speaker Price Daniel, Jr., said at a Cameron reception about two years ago that a constitutional convention of legislators "was the best we could do."

Response was to the question: "Why isn't Texas having a constitutional convention of delegates outside elective office?"

This fall, State Rep. Ray Hutchison, recently named chairman of Texas Republican Party, said in a pre-election aside: "The proposal will lose."

Daniel, a Democrat, presided over the ill-fated convention of legislators which tried last minute compromise three votes short of approval by convention deadline.

And Hutchison is credited with bringing off the effort in the 1975 Legislature to vote out a document for the November 4 election. Like Daniel, who did not run for re-election to the House, and most other legislators, Hutchison thought the public should have a look at it.

Both men campaigned for the eight-part proposal.

Round 1 went to public apathy, late opposition by Gov. Dolph Briscoe and others to a compromise format and lingering distrust of government.

Round 2 will entail putting up an elected delegation to a constitutional convention outside elective office. The commission which wrote most of the revision rejected Tuesday was appointed.

The forebodings shared by Daniel and Hutchison at least two years apart were confirmed.

It is highly possible the forces which compressed the convention into a legislative box are the same which found the results wanting. A legislature in convention failed, but a legislature in session succeeded in producing a predictable result, a compromise document.

Texas still needs constitutional revision. And another proposal will need a fairer hearing, pro and con, than the one which befell the revision after the Governor's belated stand against it.

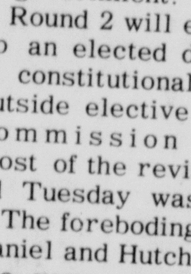
"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP



(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

ENOUGH TO MAKE A GROWN MAN CRY

Rep. George Hansen (Idaho)". . .The following letter from my constituent, Warren Barry, a small businessman in Twin Falls, Idaho, outlines his frustrations. . ."

Constituent Warren Barry writes: "It's enough to make a grown man cry."

'First, my yard foreman walked in and announce d that two men we employed last week had quit. One indicated that he could get food stamps and unemployment. With a little welfare, he would not have to work for some time. The other had some unemployment coming from another job, and with food stamps, he did not have to work that hard.

'Off I go to the local Employment Security Agency, where I go through a whole waiting room of able bodied people signing up for unemployment, in order to try to place an order for two men to work. My contact shrugs his shoulders and says he will find some men but that he has a whole list of unfilled jobs.

'We are trying to design a new job application form. Under your new requirement it might as well be blank. We cannot, without being discriminatory, ask a person's sex, martial status, whether or not they have children, a person's physical condition, his criminal record, military status, age, except if over 18 and whether or not he owns his own home.

'I will have to try to help design a new credit application to comply with the new Fair Credit Billing Act. We are told we cannot ask age, welfare status, sex, martial status, whether they own or rent, number of children, and we must respond to all applications in writing within 30 days.

'All we need is a little more Government Harassment and regulation and our day would be complete. Hope your day in Washington is better than mine in Twin Falls!

Rep. John H.Heinz III (Pa.)". . .Millions of Americans who are willing and able to work for a decent wage cannot do so because there are not enough jobs to go around. Instead, these unemployed men and women are forced to go on public relief rolls, at great expense to the taxpayer, and their sense of pride and dignity.

"This Congress is not doing enough to put the unemployed back to work. We have not enacted into law one bill that would provide useful employment for the countless men and women who would like nothing better than to once again play a productive role in the American economy. . ."

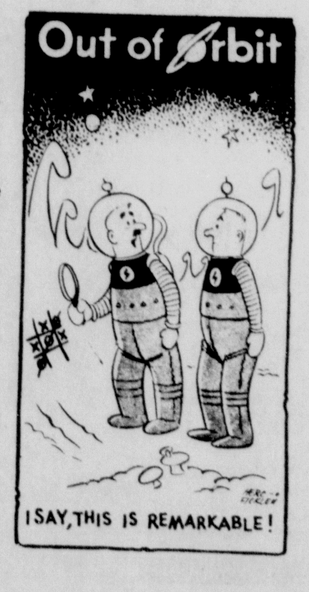
CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

We suggest that The Hon. J. H. Heinz III, whose office is in the Cannon House Office Building, take a brisk walk to the office of The Hon. George Hansen in the Longworth House Office Building. Rep. Hansen may have some news for Rep. Heinz.



Dateline Austin

RR Commissioner To Step Down

Railroad Commissioner Ben Ramsey's decision to step down at the end of his present term Jan. 1, 1977, assured a wide open race for his position next year.

A large field already is forming.

Ramsey, 71, took many by surprise with the announcement he plans to return to law practice in San Augustine in a little more than a year.

His public service career dates back to 1931 when he first entered the House of Representatives. He served six terms as lieutenant governor—longer than any Texan.

State Rep. David Finney of Fort Worth, Houston attorney Terence O'Rourke and Walter Wendlandt, an Austin attorney and former Commission division head, are announced candidates.

Secretary of State Mark White Jr. said last week he is seriously considering getting in the race. White is an appointee of Gov. Dolph Briscoe, and speculation favored him to replace Ramsey if the incumbent stepped down before end of his term.

Other possible contenders for the Commission—which regulates Texas oil and transportation industries—are Texas Legislative Council Executive Director Robert E. Johnson and State Rep. Lane Denton of Waco.

Lawyer Policies Due

The State Bar and agents' representatives requested approval of a plan authorized by the 1975 Legislature. The Board must approve guidelines.

The Bar is prepared to distribute group policies through a non-profit corporation, a staff member stated. Insurance Company of North America and American National Insurance Company have applied to the Board for authority to sell the coverage. Fees are expected to run $5 to $7.50 per month for such coverage as wells, deeds, advice, defense against traffic charges and domestic cases.

Minority Gains Few

A state legislator claims state agencies have made no progress at finding jobs for blacks, Mexican-Americans and women.

Rep. Paul Ragsdale of Dallas said the number of black employees in 38 agencies increased only four-tenths of one per cent in the last year, the number of Mexican-American workers 1.1 per cent, and the number of women 3.7 per cent.

Tax Distributed

More than $2.7 million is being remitted to 188 counties and 297 cities as their share of mixed drink taxes for July-September.

Cities get 15 per cent of the total tax collected in their boundaries, and counties 15 per cent. The remaining 70 per cent, $6.5 million for the last quarter, remains with the state general revenue fund.

Courts Speak

The State Supreme Court upheld a Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission ruling that a dry justice precinct remains dry even when the county around it votes wet.

In other recent opinions, the High Court declared:

•-The son of a slain father must divide benefits with an "adopted son" who was never legally adopted.

•-A $43,400 judgment for the state in an air pollution case against a roofer must be erased and a new trial held.

•-Killeen's moving, zoning and licensing ordinances are legal.

AG Opinions

A county judge is authorized by statute to reject competitive bids on county goods or supplies below $3,000, Atty. Gen. John Hill stated.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

•-The Governor's desk calendar is not public information. Neither are notes on his appointments, but his flight log is.

•-County law library fee may be taxed as costs in all probate proceedings except an action brought for the purpose of confining a person of unsound mind or a habitual drunkard.

•-Harris County constables elected immediately following a redistricting of precincts in 1973 must stand for election in 1976 under the state constitution.

Appointments

Governor Briscoe appointed three new members of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System and reappointed three old members.

New members are John W. Fainter of Sugar Land and Houston, L. F. Peterson of Fort Worth and Ralph Spence of Tyler. Harry M. Provence of Waco, Robert Paul Teague Sr. of Texas City and Sam D. Young Jr. of El Paso were reappointed to the key board.

Briscoe appointed James R. Lovell of Dumas and Mrs. B. M. Sims of Wellington to the West Texas State University Board of Regents. John M. Shelton III of Amarillo was reappointed.

Three new members of the Lower Colorado River Authority Board are Charles C. Schreiner III of Mt. Home, Milton Y. Tate Jr. of Brenham and J. R. "Bob" Thornton of San Marcos.

Dr. William M. Shamburger of Tyler was reappointed to Texas Youth Council.

Hal H. Hood of Austin was reappointed new Firemen's Pension Commissioner and Dr. Marion J. Filippone of Houston and Dr. T. D. Yoder of Odessa got assignments to the Texas State Board of Podiatry Examiners.

Short Snorts

Texas Civil Liberties Union and the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund sued to block implementation of the new Texas Voter Registration Act.

State Insurance Board scheduled a public hearing here November 12 to consider workmen's compensation and employers' liability rates, including certain longshoremen's and harbor workers' rates.

Texas Industrial Commission reported more than 1,400 jobs and 1,300 "spinoff" jobs will be created by 15 new industries that located in Texas during September.

The Governor approved 37 grants totalling nearly $2.90 million for local, regional and state-level improvements in criminal justice.

A 15-member advisory committee on child care licensing required by state law has been named by State Welfare Commissioner. Raymond Vowell.

The State Board of Education will hold its first meeting in new quarters here November 8 to adopt new spelling and math textbooks for grades one through six.

Texas' jobless rate dropped eight per cent at mid-August to 324,500 (six per cent of the labor force).

TSTI Offers New Course

Seven students at Texas State Technical Institute are majoring in hospital engineering technology the only course of its type offered in Texas. Graduates will receive an associate of applied science degree.

Hospital engineeri g technology is a cross - disciplinary program, incorporating courses from existing technical programs in addition to those specializing in hospital engineering.

Courses in the curriculum include sanitation and housekeeping, hospital function and design, management control techniques and biomedical equipment. Also chemistry, human relations, math and occupational safety and health.

Paul Mullin, originator of the program, became interested in offering the chourse after several recent meetings with officials of Texas Association of Hospital Engineers, together with State Tech instructional administrators.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

According to an article I read in a newspaper last Monday night in between plays to keep from having to listen to Howard Cosell, most people now get their news from television.

This was stated as a confirmed truth and I got to thinking about it. Possibly it's true, considering how uninformed most of us are about what's going on in the world, although that's no test; most of us were in that shape even before television was invented.

Now I'm not berating television news. For example, the other evening during the TV news I marveled at the fact that man has put a satelitte into orbit to bring a live picture from Japan to Cameron to tell us that Nancy Kissenger has bought a shaving brush for Dr. Kissinger when all along I'd thought television commercials had persuaded everybody to use shaving cream from a squirt can, unless of course, they'd tuned in another network and were persuaded to use an electric shaver. It's clear the Kissingers don't watch much television, but that doens't explain why he has to keep flying back and forth between those mid-east countries to make sure what he found out yesterday is still true today, in which most of the time it isn't.

But back to the notion that most people get their misinformation, I mean their news, from television. It's true they get the big news there first, like when Patty Hearst is captured or when the President is fired at by a woman, whom TV first reported was a man. But to say people get most of their national and international news from television 30 minutes a day, take away 5 minutes for commercials, and most of their local news from television another 30 minutes a day, take away 10 minutes for commercials and 5 more for car wrecks, is to be uninformed on how human nature operates.

Newspapers, which now have more circulation in the U.S. than ever before in history, furnish I'd say 50 times more news than television, and word-of-mouth beats both, if you're on speaking terms with your neighbors.

When the country was young it sometimes took two months for a speech by some Congressman in Washington to reach the outer parts of the nation, and sometimes you get the feeling those were bound to have been the good old days.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Medicare Fraud Uncovered

On October 22, Joseph M. Jackson, owner of Joe Jackson Heights Funeral Chapels in Laredo, pleaded guilty to five counts of defrauding the Medicare Program. Jackson was given a one year jail sentence, which was suspended, and placed on one year's probation. In addition, he was required to repay $7,729.02 in Medicare payments which he obtained illegally.

These five counts involved billing Medicare for ambulance services that were never rendered, and the falsification of nature illnesses or injuries to obtain payment from Medicare.

Lewis C. Wall, district manager of the Temple District Office, stated that the majority of physicians, hospitals and other providers of health services do file valid claims for reimbursement.

Regrettably, there are a few individuals in any activity who will attempt to take unfair advantages.

Wall suggests that any individual who is aware of irregularities in billing, charges or practices should contact the social security office.

Consumers May See Improved Cotton Outlook

Texas consumers may see an improved textile situation for cotton during 1975-76, Marlene Odle, a clothing specialist, reports.

While Texas produces about one-third of the nation's cotton, it only processes about one-fifth of the national total. Now a relatively new development--open-end spinning--make s Texas cotton more useful for clothing.

"This system can use short-staple, low micronaire cotton to spin high-quality yarns and do it three to five times faster than the conventional ring spinning method.

"The spinner works more efficiently and saves seven to eight cents a pound on raw material costs. New open-end spinning mills in West Texas will increase the percentage of cotton processed in Texas," she adds.

Miss Odle is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

"Highlights of the 1975-76 world cotton outlook are prospects for near-record beginning stocks, smaller production, and larger consumption. Market analysts expect U. S. cotton exports to increase because of improved foreign relations and anticipated foreign purchasing."

However, with current low cotton prices and increased competition from food crops, the global output of cotton may drop moderately below 1974-75.

"Consumers apparently have 're-discovered' cotton-it's making market gains at the expense of manmade fabrics. For instance, 100 percent cotton flame-retardant uniforms recently replaced polyester - cotton in the New York City Fire Department.

"Cottons blended in different amounts with other fibers are constantly researched to produce fabrics that combine performance characteristics with comfort and easy care.

New fabric finishes promise to make cotton more versatile, the specialist reported.

Ag Policy No Island, Says Ag Economist

HOUSTON "Agriculatural policy is no longer an island to itself. Everybody is getting into the act and trying to dictate what agricultural producers should do because agriculture has become a tremendous political issue."

With that, Dr. Ronald Knutson got to the heart of the matter in discussing the politics of agriculture at an Agribusiness Seminar here Oct. 29.

"One of the biggest issues in agriculture today is who is in control of agricultural policy," said Knutson, an economist in marketing and policy with the Texas agricultural Extension Service. "Control by the agricultural establishment is slipping into the hands of top government officials, consumer groups and labor organizations."

Knutsons, former administrator of the Farmer Cooperative Service, USDA, cited three main reasons for the increasing interest in agriculture and food policy by these "outside" groups.

"First, food has necome a key negotiating tool in a foreign policy designed to maintain world peace. In addition, food has become vital to maintaining the value of the dollar in international transactions. Third, U. S. consumers are becoming concerned that an increasing proportion of their income must go to food.

"The consumers' cries have caught the ear of organized labor, which in turn has provided the consumer movement significant financial support. Consumer and labor activism will have a strong effect on future agricultural policies, to say the least," said Knutson.

As far as policy isssues with respect to farm programs, the economist outlined four. The first dealt with government involvement in domestic farm programs. "Our farm programs must have the flexibility to deal with the potential to overproduce. Furthermore, farm programs of the future will likely have to cover all commodities. Commodity programs appear to be on their way out. With increased consumer activism, farmers will need to be realistic in terms of what they can get from an urban-oriented Congress in all commodity areas. A unified approach among producer groups interested in farm policy will be required if any success is to be realized on Capitol Hill."

Knutson indicated the use of food as a tool of international diplomacy as a second major policy issue in agriculture. "People like the Secretary of State are determining our international agricultural policy. This represents no panacea for the farmer."

The economist likewise sees little for the U. S. farmer in the recently negotiated long-term agreement with Russia. "The stabilizing effect can easily be overestimated. The agreement's upper limit on exports acts as an automatic trigger for restricted exports."

On the issue of food aid, the economist noted that about half of the Department of Agriculture budget went to food programs during the 1974-75 fiscal year. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz argues that these funds should be directed to programs that expand agricultural production, increase efficiency, and improve quality. Yet many in congress argue that food programs provide tools with which they can bargain for support of mainstream agricultural programs. For support from labor, farmers must concede to labor's demands for food stamps for strikers and minimum wage legislation. Yet farmers were unable to override President Ford's veto of the 1975 farm bill while consumers got an expanded food stamp program.

Lettuce Arrived Early

Lettuce, one of the oldest vegetable crops, was introduced into America from Europe soon after the first colonies were established.

It's A Family Affair

Farm operators and their families supply most of the labor on about 95 percent of American farms. And two-thirds of the nation's agricultural production comes from family farms.

GEORGE MARKS

SCS Has New State Supervisor

Geroge C. Marks succeeded Edward E. Thomas as state conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service effective Nov. 2.

Marks, a native of Heidenheimer, is currently state conservationist for Arizona. He began his career with SCS at Rusk in 1950 as a soil scientist and later worked as a soil conservationist and district conservationist at Sulphur Springs, Winnsboro, Jefferson, New Boston, and Corsicana.

A 1944 graduate of Temple High School, Marks has a bachelor's degree from Texas A&M University, 1950. He served in the U. S. Air Force from February 1945 to August 1946.

Beef Cattle Short Course At Gause

By John E. Snell

A Beef Cattle short course will be held in the Gause community on November 10, 12, and 20. The short course will be held at the Gause Community Center and each meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The Agricultural Committee of the Gause Community Improvement Association is sponsoring this short course. Arnold Kornegay is chairman of this committee. Mrs. J. R. Browder is president of the Gause Community Improvement Association.

The short course will be staffed by three specialists from the Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University.

On November 10, Dan Parks, Extension Service economist, will discuss economic factors affecting cow-calf operations and management decisions that should be made in cow herds.

On November 12, Dr. Dennis Herd, beef cattle nutrition specialist, will discuss beef cattle nutrition problems.

The short course will end on November 20 with Dr. James Armstrong, Extension Service veterinarian, and he will give a program on animal health problems.

All interested cattlemen are invited to attend these meetings.

County Agent's Notes

Pecan Show Set Saturday

By Bill McCutchen

The Milam County Pecan Show will be Saturday, November 8 at the American Legion Hall in Rockdale.

Processing of the entries will begin on Friday and pecan dislays can be viewed both Friday and Saturday. Judging will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday morning.

Pecan crackers furnished by Winkler Pecan Farms of Bell County will be available both Friday and Saturday. Pecans will be cracked for the public at 10¢ per pound, limit 10 pounds, please.

Screwworm Problem

1975 has become the worst year for screwworm outbreaks since the epidemic of 1972, and Milam County continues to have problems. Six confirmed cases of screwworms were reported in Milam County in September and the October cases are already above this level. Most of the confirmed cases have been in the Buckholts area with some begin close to Cameron.

The screwworm season will not be over until a good hard frost or freeze so producers are advised to check livestock closely and pay particular attention to new-born calves.

Wheat Crop Up

Last week's rain brought up the dry planted wheat and saved the drouth-stressed early plantings. Some wheat will be planted now and should germinate readily with ample moisture everywhere.

Wheat has served as a dual purpose crop for many people the past few years both as a winture and a grain crop. This year there will be little winter pasture from wheat as dry weather in September and October delayed germination and little Fall growth will be realized.

Good News For Livestock Feeders . . . Citrus Harvest Gains Momentum . . . Chick Placements Show Decline.

It's been a long time in coming, and there probably will be some rough spots continuing, but all in all, it appears things are going to get better for the livestock feeder.

Take a look at the cattle on feed situation. Even though it is down seven per cent from a year ago here in Texas, it is 11 per cent above a month ago.

Texas cattle and calves on feed as of Oct. 1 totaled 1,488,000 head. Cattle feeders now are talking about a lot better market coming during the latter part of 1976. It may be down some until then, but after that, cattle feeders are expecting to see better times to come.

Nationwide, cattle on feed in the seven major states are one per cent above a year ago and 12 per cent above a month ago.

Cattle and calves on feed in the 23 major cattle feeding states show a two per cent increase over a year ago.

In Texas, feedlot operators report intentions to market 750,000 fed cattle from now through December. This would be 50 per cent of the number on feed as of Oct. 1 and represents a decrease of 13 per cent from marketings during the same period in 1974.

A QUALITY CITRUS CROP is now being harvested in the Rio Grande Valley. Grapefruit volume continues to increase; the quality of the crop continues to be very good. Trees remain in excellent condition.

While citrus harvest is beginning in the south, seeding of wheat and oats in the northern half of the state is nearing completion. Wheat seeding for the state is now nearing the final stages. Oat seeding is also nearing the finishing mark.

Corn and sorghum harvest are in the final stages.

Harvest of cotton is about a third finished, and peanut harvest is more than 80 per cent complete.

Soybean harvest is more than a third of the way through while pecan harvest is underway.

POULTRY PRODUCTION THROUGHOUT THE STATE shows an increase in broiler chicks, a decrease in egg-type chicks, and an increase in egg production. Turkey poult hatching is up seven per cent from a year ago.

The September egg-type hatch was down 15 per cent from a month ago. Broiler chick hatchings were 11 per cent above a year ago.

Egg production in the state is seven per cent higher than a year ago at this time.

SCREWWORMS ARE CONTINUING TO PLAGUE many parts of Texas. Authorities at the fly lab in Mission continue to urge all producers to check livestock regularly, treat wounds on livestock with approved screwworm control remedies, delay surgery on livestock as long as possible, and submit suspected samples to the fly lab at Mission.

You can get the vials with which to mail the samples at your county agent's office.

Meanwhile, cooperation of all livestock producers is needed in order for the program to be as effective as possible.

Cotton Report

Trading for the week ending October 31 was moderate, repotts J. B. Russ, officer in charge, Austin Classing Office. According to the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, no new crop cotton has sold this season in the Brazos River Bottom area, while in the Waco-Temple area over 90 percent of the 1975 crop has sold. Prices being paid range from 38 to 42 cents for grades 42 and 52. Cottonseed prices range from $95 in the Central Texas Blacklands to $105 along the Brazos River Bottom.

Lebanon's factional violence offers a temptation for outside intervention but the exact degree of foreigninterference is hard to establish. Six months of violence, arising from a split essentially between left and right political forces, has cost well over 1,500 lives. And the presence of well-armed Palestinian commando groups has inevitably meant that the dispute has become entwined with the Middle East conflict.

NAIROBI, KENYA

Kenyan President Jomo Kenyatta has silenced two of his most vocal critics in parliament by placing them under detention and warned that the same fate awaits other dissenters. The president's uncompromising action has sapped the desire of his critics to carry on the war of words that has marked Kenyan parliamentary activity since the last national election a year ago.

BOLOGNA, ITALY

In many places, city planners think the best and cheapest thing to do with slums is to tear them down and build skyscraper apartment houses instead. But Bologna, where the old city center houses about 26,000 people, has decided that it is economically feasible to restore rather than destroy. And the city's communist authorities are doing it with a human touch.

Baptists Call New Pastor

The First Baptist Church, Cameron, has voted to call Rev. Vernon Dietrich as their pastor. Their former pastor, Rev. J. E. Lafferty, accepted the call as Director of Missions for the F. I.R.M. area, which includes the following counties: Falls, Lee, Burleson, Washington, Robertson and Milam, in June 1975.

Brother Dietrich grew up and attended schools in Houston. He attended the University of Houston and is a graduate of Baylor University and the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. He has had training at the Institute of Religion, Houston, in counseling and primarily hospital ministry counseling. He pastored Spring Baptist Church near Houston for eight years.

In March of 1962, he was appointed foreign missionary to Thailand and he and his wife, Dot, have served there for the past thirteen years. Dot was born and grew up in Alabama. She graduated with honors from Florence State Teachers College, Florence, Alabama. She attended Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth.

The Dietrich's have four children: a married daughter, a daughter attending college, a son, David Lee, twelve years of age, and a daughter, Melinda Gaye, eight years of age.

Brother Dietrich will arrive in Cameron this week and will be in the pulpit Sunday, November 9. His family should arrive in Cameron from Thailand the week of the 24th.

Her brother realizes that. And so do my wife and I . . . most of the time.

But sometimes Sunday mornings mean a ride in the country. . . sleeping late. . . receiving guests. Something, every Sunday.

Then one day, watching her trying to read, I realized that filling her mind and heart and soul is a continuous process. It can't be restricted to days of the week.

So Sundays in church have become part of our life style. We all are finding new insights, strengthening our faith, discovering ourselves and God.

DRUG ABUSE

Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration
U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

Children and Drugs

The right way to use drugs is something children can start learning early in life, and their best teachers—as you might expect—are their parents.

The first rule is to have your doctor decide which medicines you should give your child, and in what quantities. And remember that aspirin, vitamins, and cold tablets are drugs, too.

When you give your child medicine, do it in a matter-of-fact way, without placing undue emphasis on its taste or effect. The child should understand that the medicine is necessary, not a treat that "tastes just like candy."

Parents should control a child's medication at home. This means administering the medicine in the recommended dosage at the proper time, keeping all drugs out of reach of a young child, and never leaving a bottle of medicine in a young child's room.

If possible, do not let a baby-sitter give your child medicine. If the sitter must be given the responsibility, leave written instructions and make sure the sitter understands them.

Drugs are no substitute for tender loving care. Love and understanding help a child learn to handle pain and sickness which are a part of every life. There are no magic drugs to make all discomfort go away.

But drugs are a part of our lives and we cannot avoid them. We can, however, remember to treat them as a temporary necessity, to be used in no greater quantity and for no longer than a physician recommends.

Most of all, parents can set an example of living in a way that discourages drug abuse. They will do this if they show that they can stand a certain amount of pain or emotional upset without turning to drugs or drink for quick relief.

And parents will further help their children if they encourage them to enjoy life—to seek out satisfying and varied experiences.

If you would like to have a free booklet that contains these and other tips for parents, write for Tips on Drug Abuse Prevention to the National Clearinghouse for Drug Abuse Information, Box 2305, Rockville, Maryland 20852.

CLUBS

Delta Kappa Gamma

Miss Eulalah Brown, Mrs. John Rasberry and Mrs. Leo Kahler Jr., of Rosebud, will present a bicentennial program for Beta Nu Chaper of Delta Kappa Gamma at a brunch, Saturday, Nov. 8 at 9:30 a.m. at Houston's Cafeteria in Marlin.

Mrs. Roy Hensley of Cameron, president, will hold a business meeting afterwards.

Home Demonstration

The Cameron Home Demonstration Club met in October in the home of Mrs. Raymond Richter with seven members and two visitors.

A report was given by Mrs. Frank Hanel on the state convention held in Abilene. Ms. Irene Angell gave a program on meat substitutes and uses of soy bean meal as a low cholesterol substitute. The group sampled a vareity of breakfast foods made from soy beans.

After refreshments were served, Mrs. Jo Ann Gallup of Oregon talked on life in her state.

Mrs. Hanel was winner of a suprise package.

J. T. Krulls Honored

There will be reception given Nov. 9 in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Krull of Cameron to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary.

The reception, 2-4 p.m. at Simon George Hall, is being given by the Krull's children and grandchildren.

DEBBIE HENSLEY of Cameron is among the 90 percision dancers who make up the Southwest Texas Strutters, the popular dance and drill unit of the Southwest Texas State University Band Organization. The Strutters, under the direction of Mrs. Barbara Tidwell, perform at all home football games, as well as selected road games. Ms. Hensley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Debs D. Hensley of Rt. 3, Box 90 Cameron, is a senior home economics education major at SWT. She is a 1973 graduate of Berkner High School in Richardson and a two year member of the Strutters.

SCHOOL NEWS

By Karen Richardson
Yoe Band Reporter

The Yoe High School Band is working hard preparing for U.I.L. marching contest which will be Nov. 18 in Hillsboro.

Executing a variety of marching routines, the band will include chevrons, diamonds, squares and circles. Also two styles of marching steps will be seen, a "bicycle" step which is eight steps to every five yards and a military step, which is six steps to every five yards.

The band is striving for that first division rating.

Also, on Nov. 8, several band girls will be twirling at U.I.L. twirling contest at Midway High School. These contestants will then qualify for tryouts for Yoe twirlers in May for the 1976-77 school year.

Oct. 31 presented a unique football game. The band started the evening by hosting the Hearne band to a Halloween party including masked "spooks" of all kinds.

After an enjoyable party of cokes and candy, the band turned out an exciting and enjoyable half-time performance. The twirlers were featured, twirling with fire. A great year for the Yoe High Band is well under way.

Local Lions Plan Annual Broom Sale

The Cameron Evening Lions Club will have its annual broom and mop sale on November 10 through 15.

The Lions will sell from door-to-door in the residential districts and will also sell to downtown businesses.

All items in the sale, which include a number of household items, are made at the Lighthouse for the Blind.

Proceeds from the sale will be used for local projects.

Family Reunion, Birthday Party Fete Mrs. Hemenas

Mrs. Leona Walzel Hemenas was honored on her 80th birthday by a party and family reunion given by her daughter, Mrs. Dean (Enid) Schneider of Florissant, Mo. and her son, Carl Walzel of San Antonio.

Approximately 60 relatives and friends gathered at the Community Recreation Hall in Cameron to express their congratualtions and best wishes.

After a "Happy Brithday song, guests were served sandwiches, punch, coffee, and birthday cake, beautifully decorated with flowers and 80 candles.

Her children and their families included Mr. and Mrs. Dean Schnieder, Jana, and Jay Schneider from Florissant, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Walzel; Mr. and Mrs. Bill (Karen Walzel) Hayes; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wayne Walzel and Chanda from San Antonio.

Chanda Walzel is the great granddaughter of Mrs. Hemenas. Also attending were her sisters, Mrs. Lillie Walzel of San Antonio and Mrs. Rosa Westbrook of Cameron, and her brother, Palmer (Pete) Eickenhorst of Temple, formerly of Cameron.

Milam County Extens. Ag.

LOOKING FOR SOMETHING GOOD TO SERVE THE FAMILY FOR THE HOLIDAYS? Well, come to the Milam County Pecan and Pecan Food Show on November 8 at the American Legion Hall at 112 North Main in Rockdale.

The Milam County Home Demonstration Clubs will be selling prize winning cakes, pies, candy, cookies, yeast breads, cookies, quick breads, and miscellaneous items followin g the judging. This will start at about 10:30 a.m.

If you would like to enter something, bring it to the hall by 9 a.m. Judging will start at 9 a.m. Any resident of Milam County is free to enter the Pecan Food Show and there is a junior class for those in school and a senior division for those out of high school and above.

Each division has all seven classes. So come on out, enter if you like, look at all the good items to eat, and maybe buy something to take home to the family or to freeze for the holiday season.

Christmas Time At Home

The Milam County Extension Office and the Milam County Program Building Committee is sponsoring a Christmas Time At Home Program by Diane Reese, consumer service advisor for Lone Star Gas.

The same program will be presented four times in the county, for the convenience of all residents. The schedule of programs is as follows:

Nov. 12, 10 a.m., Thorndale, St. Paul's Lutheran School meeting room;

Nov. 12, 2 p.m., Rockdale, New Salem Home Demonstration Club House;

Nov. 18, 10 a.m., Cameron, Community Center, 704 West 6;

Nov. 18, 2 p.m., Buckholts, High School Home Economics Department.

These programs will cover food ideas, gift ideas, and decorating ideas for the holidays. The programs are free of charge and anyone is invited to come and participate.

Red And Gold Apples Highlight Interesting Fall Appetizer

Fresh from the mountain orchards of North Carolina come Red and Golden Delicious Apples. First of the new season's supply of fresh apples to reach our markets, these crisp, juicy beauties are already in the market and will be available through the season. To help you enjoy these delectable apples more, the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association has several interesting ideas. Fresh Apple Snack is an exciting and new way to add fresh apples to the hors d'oeuvre tray. Served cold and crunchy, the tart flavor of Delicious apples blends perfectly with carrot curls, celery slices and savory salami fans.

Fresh Apple Snacks

1 carrot
4 Red Delicious apples
2 Golden Delicious apples
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
4 ounces sliced salami
2 ribs celery

Carrot Curls: Make thick horizontal slices with a vegetable peeler, roll around finger and secure with pick. Place in ice water for 3 hours or overnight to crisp.

Apple Wedges: Cut apples into eighths and coat with lemon juice.

Salami Fans: Fold salami slices in half, then in quarters.

Celery: Cut into 1-inch diagonal slices.

Blue Cheese Dip

2 cups (1 pint) sour cream
4 ounces blue cheese, crumbled
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1 tablespoon chopped scallions
¼ teaspoon salt

Mix all ingredients in small bowl. Chill for 2 hours or overnight to blend flavors. Makes: 2⅓ cups.

By Dorothy Roschetzky

Tuesday, Oct. 21, church services were held by Mr. Nelson Green. Mrs. Louise Archer sang "How Great Thou Art" and "When They Ring Those Golden Bells". Mrs. Denton House played the piano. The residents enjoyed the services very much.

A birthday party was held on October 24, honoring the residents who had birthdays during the month of October. They were Mr. Thomas Little, Mrs. Lola Davis, Jack Ingram, T. Y. Fisher and Oren McAnulty. Hostesses for the party were the ladies from St. Monica's parish. Mrs. Frank Hanel played the piano while Shirley Hollas led the group in singing "Happy Birthday," "Beyond the Sunset," "Draw Me Nearer," "Rock Of Ages," "My Faith Looks Upon Thee" and by special request made by Oren McAnulty "Just As I Am."

Serving the refreshments were Shirley Green, Pat Cordier, Martha Freeman, Shirley Hollas and daughter. Also Mrs. Joan Gallup. While the ladies were serving the refreshments, Martha Freeman played some old time favorite songs which the residents really did enjoy hearing again.

Church services were held on October 23 with Rev. Henry Weston.

On October 26, church services were held with Mr. Alton Robbins. Mr. T. Y. Fisher, a resident of the home, played the piano at the services.

A devotional with Mr. Nelson Green was held on Oct. 28. Mrs. Shirley McCutchen led the singing and Mrs. Denton House was the pianist.

The residents enjoyed a Halloween party on Wednesday, Oct. 29. The hostesses were some of the aides and the activity director. Everyone enjoyed homemade cake and punch, while T. Y. Fisher played the piano. Mr. Fisher also played a special "Happy Birthday" for Oren McAnulty because it was his birthday. The residents each received a Trick or Treat Bag which they enjoyed.

On October 30, church services were held by Rev. H. M. Bowley. The residents enjoyed singing "What A Friend We Have in Jesus" and Carol Green sang a special "How Great Thou Art" while Mrs. Denton House played the piano.

November 1, church services were held with Mr. Alton Robbins. Mr. T. Y. Fisher played the piano following the services.

News From Gause

By Mrs. Wanda Lee

Mr. F. B. Fisher was taken to the hospital in Hearne Friday morning.

There was a lot of hammering and sawing going on at the community center this past Tuesday when the youngsters met for a 4-H Club workshop on woodworking. They all made progress on their projects and all seemed to be enjoying what they were doing. Mr. Kuntz from Cameron is assisting the youngsters in their projects. The monthly meeting of the 4-H will be the second Monday night of the month, November 10 at 7 p.m. All youngsters of the community are urged to attend.

On Friday afternoon a program was held in the school auditorium for the purpose of presenting the awards to the Gause school students who participated in and won the 1974-75 President's Physical Fitness award for the State of Texas. This is the second year the Gause school has won this title. Last year they were second in the nation.

The school received a certificate of commendation and a plaque for display. The school has also received several letters of congratulations from government officials.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Slay recently made a trip to Fayetteville, North Carolina to welcome their daughter Sandra and son-in-law, Bob Carmicheal home for a tour of duty with the Army in Germany. While there they were guests in the home of Bob's mother, and sister, Mrs. Dorothy Stamp and Anne Marie.

Mrs. Anna Mae Ely accompanied her children and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Ely, Denice and Chris of Bryan, to Houston for the day Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Timmons visited in Minerva Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Bernice Longmire.

Weekend guests with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoppe were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hoppe of Bay City and his sister, Miss Helen Marie Hoppe, of Houston.

Mrs. Velma Moseley of Cameron and Mrs. Flonnie Mae Woods of Hanover visited Saturday with Mrs. Lola Williams. They attended the music jamboree in New Baden Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Davis of Austin visited and had lunch Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Coats and children.

Recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Young were Mrs. W. M. Egleson of Austin who came and painted the Youngs' house, mowed the grass and did other cleaning jobs for Mr. and Mrs. Young. This past Sunday Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Palmer of Elgin visited the Youngs.

Roy Gene and Edith Miller of Milano are the parents of a son, Trent Gene, who was born in the Hearne hospital Sunday, Nov. 2. The new addition weighted 8 pounds 2 ounces at birth. The Millers have a daughter, Regina. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Koye Cass of Gause. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Miller of Milano. Paternal great - grandmother is Mrs. Maggie Miller of Milano.

SUPERWIRE--Aluminum Compan y of America has developed a unique wire (foreground) that closely approaches the theoretical limits of electrical conductor efficency. The wire is a combination of aluminum, niobium, titanium, and superpure aluminum. It is made by reducing a large aluminum ingot such as that show in the background. Alcoa photo.

New Alcoa Wire Product Developed By Scientists

Aluminum Company of America has closely approached the theoretical limits of electrical conductor efficiency with a new wire product developed by Alcoa Laboratories, according to Fred P. Bergeron, Alcoa's Texas area manager.

The conductor, a niobium-titanium alloy in an aluminum matrix, was developed by Alcoa scientists in collaboration with Dr. Clay N. Whetstone, a noted superconductor researcher, at the company's research laboratories in Pennsylvania.

Alcoa operates three plants in Texas and is building a fourth near Paletine. The company produces more metal in Texas than any other state.

Bergeron said the new electrical product, technically described as an "aluminum stabilized superconducting composite," could lead to significant breakthroughs in such diverse areas as:

--equipment to produce the high intensity magnetic fields necessary to contain plasma for nuclear fusion power generators;

--linear propulsion and magnetic levitation for rapid transit vehicles;

--superconducting electrical transmission lines;

--storage of electricity in magnetic fields;

--rotating electrical machinery such as motors and generators.

Bergeron said the Alcoa composite contains, in addition to the niobium-titanium alloy, an alunimun alloy and superpure aluminum. The latter is noted for its superior electric conductivity at cryogenic temperatures. He also indicated that the conductor is half the weight of known superconductor composites and that its cryogenic tensile strength is in excess of 150,000 psi.

He said the conductor will be produced by a combination of Alcoa fabricating technologies and that Alcoa has applied for patents on the process.

"Research in superconductive materials has gained impetus in recent years as scientists have sought to reduce the resistance of conductors to an electrical current," Bergeron explained. "Resistance is dramatically reduced when some conductors are operated at temperatures of minus 450 degrees F or below by being immersed in a supercold environment, such as liquid helim. However, only a few materials, including niobium-titanium, exhibit superconductive properties.

"With the reduction in resistance, the conductor itself can be vastly reduced in size with an attendant reduction in electrical losses and size and weight of electrical machines and equipment."

Whooping Cranes Seen Heading For Texas Home

Any day now whooping cranes may be crossing the Texas skies. According to reports relayed to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, the migration got off to a late start, but the famous endangered birds now are winging their way southward.

The whoopers left their Canadian nesting grounds Sept. 23. Authorities at their winter home, the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge at Austwell, Texas, last week received word of two sighted in North Dakota and four at Sargent, Nebraska, which now have continued on their way.

Since the 1930s organizations and individuals across the United States and Canada have been cooperating to save the magnificent whooping cranes from extinction. There has been a slight, fluctuating increase from some 23 birds a couple of decades ago. A peak of 59 was reached in 1971 but last year's figures had dipped to 47 adults and 2 young.

Arrivals at Aransas usually range between Oct. 6 and 25, depending on weather conditions. The cold front predicted for last weekend was expected to bring them into the state.

During the birds' winter residence, refuge personnel make a weekly, two-hour aerial census of the coastal marshes, Matagorda Island, and St. Joseph Island. The first such flight this year was made Oct. 17 but there was no such sign of the visitors at that time.

Any observers spotting the eagerly awaited cranes are invited to call Aransas Refuge at 512-286-3559. Sportmen, of course, should be alert not to confuse the endangered birds with game species.

Plumage of the whooping crane is entirely white except for the jet black of the wing tips, the carmine red crown, and a black area across the cheeks. The long legs are black, and the long, heavy bill is grey or brown, pinkish towards the base. Wingspan is more than seven feet and in flight the wings are raised in quick, powerful strokes, rather narrow in their complete arc, with a short, rapid flick on the upbeat.

Groom Yard For Winter

Autumn's the season for outdoor clean-up, preparing yard and garden for winter months.

Along with raking leaves and cleaning out garden and flower beds, fences and yard structures should be cleared of debris before the wet season, for longer life and to keep them looking their best.

Spacing between planks of a wood deck needs cleaning to allow free drainage. This is an easy task with a putty knife, or piece of stiff cardboard, one the youngsters can help with.

Fence rails and post tops should be cleaned of moisture-retaining dirt and leaves and sunshade roofs should be swept off.

Eave troughs and pipes should be cleared of all debris so water drains quickly off the roof to prevent damage from overflowing troughs.

Animal Eyes Display Unique Seeing Power

What has built-in bifocals, sees with mirrors, could spot a dime at 1,000 feet, can watch forward and behind its back at the same time, and views the world in glorious grays?

Answer(s): A horsefly, a crocodile, a hawk, a rabbit, a dog.

And it all comes naturally to them. They are examples of life's adaptability, or what nature has come up with in the way of individualizing that most specialized of all sensory organs, the eye.

Some of the more spectacular samples illustrate the September World, the new magazine for children published by the National Geographic Society.

The bifocal effect of the horsefly's eyes--found only in the male's eyes--is produced by two kinds of facets among the 7,000 in each eye. Larger facets on the upper part of the eye register coarse images, smaller ones provide sharper detail.

Glow-in-the-Dark Eyes

Mirror vision, as it might be called, is a light-saving feature of crocodiles, cats, dogs, deer, and most nocturnal animals. Light entering the eye passes through the film-like retina that registers what the eye sees. Then the light hits a mirror surface and bounces back to reinforce the image.

At night in a beam of light the eyes of these animals refelct with this eyeshine.

In daylight the irises may squeeze nearly shut, producing,for instance, the slit pupil of the cat's eye which catches 50 percent more light than man's and needs only one-sixth as much for seeing.

With the sharp distant vision characteristic of birds, a pigeon could see a grain of wheat the length of a football field and a hawk could spot a dime on the sidewalk from atop the Empire State Building. Eyes of hawks and eagles have at least eight-power magnification.

On the ground, horses, lions, dogs, and cats all see better than man. However, elephants and rhinoceroses are so nearsighted they can hardly make out other elephants and rhinos 100 feet away.

Backward-Looking

Rabbit's eyes give them a view behind as well as ahead and to the side, as with many animals that are favorite meals of hunting creatures. With fewer dangers to watch out for, foxes, tigers, and other hunters have foward-looking bionacular eyes.

Dogs, cats, and most animals don't see color, but register the world in shades of gray. Exceptions are man, birds, fish, reptiles, and octopuses--all see in bright colors.

For what it's worth the bullfighters and picnickers, bulls don't see red--they may as easily be provoked into a charge by flapping a beach towel as by waving a red flag.

How to control the amount of light that enters the eye is a problem with many solutions. Camels' eyes have pupiles with toothlike edges to shade them from the desert's glare. Palau Island gecoks, small nocturnal lizards, have pupils that contract into four small pinhole apertures in daylight.

Eels, living on river bottoms, protect their eyes behind tough, transparent windows in the skin of their heads.

VA Tells Veteran About Benefits

Each of the 50,000 men and women leaving military service every month can expect at least five Veterans Administration communications within six months of their separation date, Jack Coker, VA regional director, noted today.

Upon notification by the Department of Defense of termination of active duty under conditions other than dishonorable, the VA tells the new veterans of his eligibility for benefits.

The veteran is urged to contact the nearest VA regional office or a representative of a veterans' service organization for complete application procedures.

Texas Power & Light Company's costs of producing and supplying electricity have risen drastically in the past several years...and they're certain to continue to go up in the future.

TP&L must have fuels to operate its generating plants. Natural gas, which will account for about 77% of fuel requirements in 1975, rose in price approximately 84% during the year.

To reduce its dependency on natural gas, TP&L has underway a massive program to utilize less expensive lignite coal and nuclear materials. However, lignite and nuclear plants cost much more to build than gas plants. Two lignite-fueled generating plants are already in operation and others are under construction or in advance stages of planning. A nuclear-fueled plant is also under construction.

Hundreds of millions of dollars will be required by TP&L in the next few years to construct generating plants. Most of this money must come from the sale of bonds and stocks to investors.

To sell these securities, we must be able to pay competitive rates of interest on bonds and dividends on stocks.

All of these conditions and others left TP&L no choice but to recently ask its customers to pay more for their electric service now to assure adequate and reliable service in the future.

Yoe J. V. Slaps Hearne, 27-0

The Yoe High junior varsity overpowered the Hearne JV 27-0 last Thursday and extended their win column to 5-2 for the season.

The Yoe JV scored in the second, third, and then twice in the fourth quarters to scalp Hearne on their home territory. Peter Riola and Jon Schmidt had key interceptions to halt the Eagle aerial attack.

The first quarter was a standstill between the two defenses and it was mid way into the second quarter before the Yoe JV offense was able to generate their first scoring drive.

The long road to paydirt was capped when QB Bobby Burton tucked the ball and sailed two yards for the TD. Gary Lewis booted the PAT that was good and the Yoe JV led 7 -0.

In the third quarter action Eroll Spells, the leading JV scorer got the call and dashed 42 yards in the early moments of the quarter. Lewis came on the field and sailed the pork through the upright and the Yoe JV increased their dominance 14-0.

Variety was the feature of the next Yoe score when Bobby burton faded back and threaded the needle when he connected with Curtis Wise on a 32 yard pas run. Lewis booted the ball and it was wide to the left, leaving Yoe with a 20-0 lead.

One more time. Jon Schmidt playing tough defensive got between a screen pass and intercepted the pass and scurried 45 yards untouched to add the final TD of the evening. James Thompson activiated his kicking toe and sailed the ball between the uprights , giving the Yoe JV a whopping 27-0 decision over Hearne.

According to JV Coach Paul Hoelscher, the defensive standouts included James Thompson, Stanley Schigut, and Mike Barr. Hoelscher said, "We ha d a real fine defensive night and Peter Riola and Jon Schmidt also played an outstanding game."

The Yoe JV will play Manor JV with the combined efforts of the Yoe freshmen squad at 7 p.m. at Manor Stadium.

Mustangs Stand 6-2 For Season

The Manor Mustangs, looking for a chance to change their image in AA standings, has 10 offensive and 11 defensive regulars back from their 1-9 season of '74.

A formal complain could have been lodged for team brutality in '74, but the wounds have healed and the Mustangs have recovered from the shock of entering the 2A ranks after being a leader in class A loop.

The Mustangs now stand 6-2-0 for the season and have gathered a 3-2 win-loss record for dist.'ict.

Size isn't a strong suit for the Mustangs, but they will depend on their quickness and swarm tackling that has gained them the respect of their '75 opponents.

Fullback Curtis Habbit, 6'2", 210, is the prize running back for the Mustangs and is a vital part in the Wishbone alignment.

Greg McMahan, 170, will be calling the plays and will set up the running attack to compliment his passing game. McMahan will be handing off to the leading scorer Michael Williams, #33, who holds the fastest time in the Manor backfield.

The running backs will be depending on the blocking of an average line weight of 180. After the running attack is established, McMahan will go to the air and will throw to Jerome Jennings, #23, and Rodney Ryden, a 190 pound tight end.

Their defense has more stunts and alignments than players on the entire team.

The Mustang defense will line up in an 8 man front and will stunt from this basic alignment.

The defense will be depending on 157 pounds across the line to hold off the Yoemen's running game. Their secondary is small but quick with the secondary averaging 140 per player.

The thirsty Mustangs could polish off a second-year come back with the services of a gusty offensive attack. Their offense has scored 67 points while their defense has held their district opponents to 73 total points.

It will be the last game played at Yoe Field this season and the last game ever for the seniors of the '75 Fighting Yoemen. Friday night has been set as Parent Night and all parents are asked to assemble at the field at 7:30 and they will be introduced to the crowd.

Tennis Shop Offers Lessons

McClary Tennis Shop of Waco is offering tennis lessons to interested individuals in Cameron, according to Helen Huffman, Yoe High tennis coach.

Mrs. Huffman said, "Anyone interested in 4 1-hour lessons should contact me at 697-2476 after 4 p.m."

The lessons will be offered on alternate Saturdays beginning in November, she said.

The fee for the 4 group lessons will be $10. If interested contact Mrs. Huffman today.

O.J.T. 7th Defeats R-Lott

Rusty Crummer led the OJ Thomas Yoe Yoes to two touchdowns and iced the cake for another seventh grade victory over the Rosebud seventh grade 12-8 in Thursday night action at Yoe Field.

The first half remained scoreless until ten seconds before the half and Yoe Yoe QB Alan Sapp completed a 50 yard pass to Rusty Crummer for a TD. The point after attemp failed and the Yoe Yoes closed the half leading 6-0.

Early in the fourth quarter Rusty Crummer culminated a 40 yard drive with the second and final Yoe Yoe TD when he plunged into paydirt. Again the point after failed and the Yoe Yoes took command 12-0.

Rosebud used one of their tricks and walked, yes walked, into the end zone with 6 seconds remaining. The center picked up the ball and just handed it to the fullback who set a street pace walk for 6. The PAT was good and the Yoe Yoes escaped the trickery on top, 12-8.

Defensive standouts according to Coach Roy Knight were Harlan Short, Jeffery Gelner, William Harwell, and Rodney Fincher.

CHANGE-UP. . .

Changes have been made in the rosters because of the freshmen team finishing its season premature. Neither Manor nor Rosebud-Lott have a freshmen team and the Yoe freshmen have been moved up to the junior varsity level to finish the season.

Moved to the varsity level are: John McIntyre, secondary, James Thompson defensive tackle, and Jon Schmidt offensive tackle.

When you see all the talent on this junior varsity team one knows that football Cameron style is here to stay!

Thanks Coaches.

SNOOP, PART II. . . .

It's getting more involved than Godfather Part II. I suppose we should invite our out-of-town visitors over for coffee.

It's certainly not good politices for schools to be snooping and using Watergate tactics to hope for a mistake.

After all is said and done, we can say we beat you twice, once on the football field and again in the sportsmanship area.

Let's not forget the purpose of the sport, to benefit the athletes not the fans or coaches.

BANDS. . .

Yes plural, and I do mean BANDS. What a stunning half - time performance by the O. J. Thomas Junior High band under the direction of Mr. Gary Beach. The Yoe Yoe band performed the first full length marching performance in the history of that school.

It was a great job by the band who will also be performing at U.I.L. contest in mid November.

What about Yoe High Band? There aren't enough adjectives to describe the job that the band has done under the direction of Mr. Jerry Bartley.

Mr. Bartley has assembled one of the finest, if not the finest 2A marching bands in the state. It's not a matter of opinion but fact. Last year the band received a first division in U.I.L. Marching (the first ever in the history of the Yoe band) and took the Corpus Christi marching contest with a first division.

Nothing compliments one another better than a winning band and a winning football team.

LAST-TIME. . .

To the seniors on the '75 Yoemen team it will be their last time to wear the maroon and gray on Yoe Field. The Fighting Yoemen have 14 games running without a loss in Yoe Stadium.

Friday night has also been designated as 'Parents' Night' in order to recognize the parents of the fighting Yoemen.

CAULEY SAID. . .

"The first half against Hearne I feel we outcoached ourselves. David Rosemond had a fantastic run when he scored and not a block was thrown. It looked like everyone was getting out of his way.

"We moved the ball fairly well in the second half. Our third quarter was a little slow but the fourth quarter we really got after it.

"We pounded them and in the fourth quarter they began to show it and we were able to move our offense.

"They had a couple of opportunities to score but our defense did a great job and had an outstanding night. They have done a great job back - to - back, against Hearne and Caldwell.

"Michael White is still a little shaken up and his timing is off but we expect him to be in good shape this week.

"We're going to go with the same game plan as against Hearne. We will not relv on our passing game but do what we do best. That is to hammer them with our running game.

"Manor is a quick team but they aren't as large as the other teams in the district. In fact they might be the smallest but they are also the quickest.

"They are 3-2 for the district and like everyone else they will be ready for us.

"They will run off a wishbone offensive set and will set up in an 8 man front on defense. Their defense will stunt a lot.

"Being #1 everybody is ready to play you. After every game since district the coaches have told me that it was their best game of the season. They also said that Cameron was the easiest game to get their kids ready and up for.

"Manor will play their best game against us, that's the price of being picked number one. We will be ready for them Friday night.

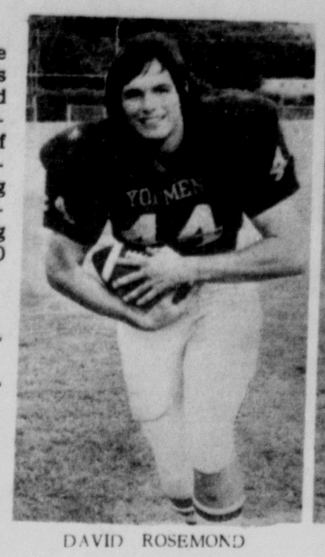
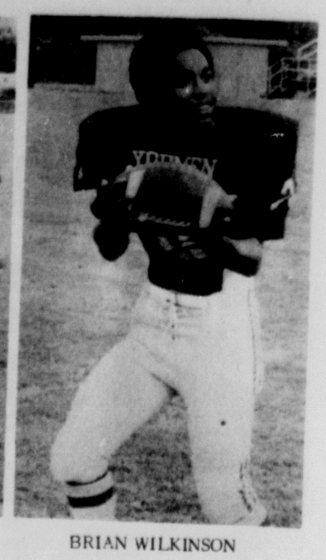
TALENT SPOTLIGHT '75



DAVID ROSEMOND



BRIAN WILKINSON

Proving that size isn't a limiting factor in playing football is David Rosemond, standing 5'4" and weighing 134 pounds. David is the starting defensive halfback and is the back up tailback.

The 15-year old sophomore also switches in the wingback position. As a trackster he runs the 1 yard dash at 10.3 speed. David also plans to continue running track during the upcoming season.

David is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and is an active member in DECA.

Number 22 is the son of Mrs. Bessie Rosemond of Rt. 2, Cameron. He has four brothers, three of which are out of school. They are Clifton, Clifford, Stanley, and Edward, and eighth grader. David has three sisters, all married: Alice, Linda, and Bertha.

I asked David how he feels about the season so far, and he said "I wish the opponents would start throwing more and give the secondary a chance for some interceptions. We have the talent to go all the way, but we will take the games one at a time."

Watching television is one of David's hobbies and he sites the University of Oklahoma and Dallas as his favorite teams.

Brian Wilkinson , a one-year returning letterman, is serving as a captian for this year's Cameron Yoemen. Brian is the starting inside linebacker and is the reserve fullback who scored 12 points against Elgin.

Brian is a junior who stands 6'4" and weighs 215 pounds to be one of the largest Yoemen.

Number 44 also plays basketball and runs track. In both sports last season Brian was on the JV.

Brian was elected as the sophomore class favorite and is a member of the Student Council. He is also an active member in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Buck Wilkinson of 1607 N. Hoover in cameron. He has one brother, James, who is a counselor in San Antonio. He also has one sisters, Becky, who is a senior at South West Texas State University in San Marcos.

I asked Brian how he feels about the season and he said, "It's been rough. Everyone has been up and ready to play us. I guess everyone wants to beat the number one team."

His hobbies include hunting and mechanical work. He picks Baylor as his favorite college team and said he picks the Cowboys as his pro team.

How to invest a lump sum without taking any lumps.

Be secure with Series H Bonds
When you come into some money, your problem may be how to keep it. Series H Bonds could be your best choice. They're absolutely secure. And you get current interest mailed to your door every six months, at a rate averaging 6% annually when held to 10-year maturity.

Preserve your capital
Capital? That's exactly what your new money is. So, preserve it with Series H Bonds. No ups and downs. Always worth what your paid. Actually, Series H Bonds are one of the safest ways to keep your principal intact.

Get income as it's earned
Steady, dependable income. Twice a year.
And here's a way to get interests checks every month, if you'd like. Just buy an H Bond a month for six consecutive months. That way, you'll have a regular income guaranteed.

Purchase $500 to $5,000
Your banker has purchase applications for H Bonds. At face value of $500, $1,000, and $5,000. There's an annual purchase limitation of $10,000 ($20,000 with a co-owner).
So why worry? Even a little. Because with H Bonds, you always get back what you paid.
Plus an income you can count on.

Take stock in America.
Buy Series H Bonds—now averaging 6% when held to maturity of 10 years.
